Join Trivalent Group for a look at some of the absolute must have WAN technologies for your business in 2010. Research shows that your connectivity options have become ever more important in the grand scheme of your business operations. Failure to plan for ample, flexible, bandwidth options could leave your business crippled. Learn about the newest connectivity mechanisms from the leaders!

Feed the Need for Speed

In a recent IDG survey more than 50% of the respondents felt that their abilities to collaborate with customers were hindered by "antiquated hardware and outdated software" along with a lack of converged networks. Unified communications, videoconferencing and other effective collaboration technologies require fast internet connections. Ethernet provides flexible, scalable and FAST connectivity for businesses.
